Dr. Andrea Caliri Joins MindLeaf

Lowell, Mass. – May 1, 2018 – MindLeaf, a healthcare solutions and services company, providing Medical Scribe, MACRA/MIPS, HIPAA privacy and security, and other medical support services, announced that Dr. Andrea Caliri has joined the organization as a Medical Consultant. Dr. Caliri will work with physicians and physician practices to develop virtual scribe solutions that integrate seamlessly into their workflow and that reduce documentation time, improve work-life balance, provide optimal patient care and reduce physician burnout.

“Physicians currently spend about 50% of their time documenting and only 27% of their day on direct patient care which is driving physician burnout,” said Dr. Andrea Caliri. “In my role at MindLeaf, I will be working with provider clients to leverage the value of virtual medical scribes so they can practice medicine in an efficient and patient-focused manner to help them experience the joy of practicing medicine again.”

Prior to joining MindLeaf, Dr. Caliri has practiced as an OB/GYN in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. She obtained a B.A. in Biology from Brown University, received an M.D. from the Robert Wood Johnson Medical School at Rutgers University, and completed her OB/GYN residency at Drexel University Hospitals in Philadelphia. Dr. Caliri currently resides in Sharon, MA and advises MindLeaf prospects and clients throughout New England.

“Dr. Caliri is a wonderful addition to the MindLeaf team as we focus on growing our medical scribe practice,” said Paresh Shah, President of MindLeaf. “Given her experience in multiple clinical environments, her deep scribing expertise and her passion for helping physicians avoid MD burnout, Dr. Caliri will be a valuable resource to our provider clients who are looking to alleviate the stress on their physicians who after a full day in the clinic may be spending long hours completing documentation on nights and weekends.”
